Dear colleague,

Everyone in the Coats team shares the responsibility for developing and maintaining a working environment that we can be proud of. The foundations of this lie in everyone acting with honesty, integrity and fairness and speaking up if they feel this is not happening. Our business reputation, together with the trust and confidence of the people we do business with, is one of our most valuable assets. It is therefore essential that all of us accept responsibility for maintaining excellence in this area.

The purpose of this Ethics Code is to ensure that employees across Coats have a clear understanding of the principles and ethical values that the Company wants to uphold. It applies to all employees in all Coats group companies globally. Where the Company participates in joint ventures the code's standards should be actively promoted.

It is not possible to anticipate every situation. The code is necessarily broad therefore and general in nature and is not intended to replace more detailed policies and procedures. Nevertheless, these basic principles and ethical values should serve as a guide to each employee in his or her dealings with customers, suppliers, shareholders, colleagues and others with whom the Company has relationships.

Together we can ensure that Coats not only sets high standards but also lives by them. Thank you for playing your part.

Group Executive Team

Ethics Code

Please note that if you are concerned that adhering to this policy will result in a breach of local law then you should consult the Legal Team.

Strictly adhere to anti-trust laws

We value open and fair competition and do not knowingly enter into business arrangements that eliminate or discourage competition or that provide us an improper competitive advantage. It is our policy to compete independently and not to enter into any anti-competitive agreements. We will all:

- familiarise ourselves with and adhere to all laws that apply to our areas of the business; and
- not price fix, offer bribery or kickbacks, enter into agreements with competitors to divide the markets in which we compete by allocating territories or markets and/or limiting the production or sale of products or product lines, or condition the sale of one product on the sale of another unwanted product or service.

Further reference:

Our Competition Law Policy

Our Anti-bribery and Anti-corruption Policy

Comply with anti-bribery and corruption legislation

We will not offer, promise, give or receive (either directly or through a third party such as a family member or close associate) any financial payment or anything else of value, with the intention to induce or reward any person to perform improperly a function or activity that he/she is otherwise expected to perform in good faith, impartially or from a position of trust (e.g. the award of a contract or an order).

We prohibit bribery and facilitation payments in any form whatsoever, whether to public officials or business contacts made by Coats companies or on their behalf. We compete on the merits of our products and services and do not use the exchange of business courtesies to gain an unfair competitive advantage, nor do we offer or accept gifts of substance or inducements, particularly those that encourage or reward decisions in the course of business. We will all act honestly and with integrity to safeguard the resources for which we are responsible.

Further reference:

Our Anti-bribery and Anti-corruption Policy

Gifts, Entertainment and Hospitality

Our Gifts and Entertainment Policy sets out the principles and rules we must follow. The policy also details when prior approval must be sought.

We allow gifts and entertainment to be accepted and offered which are reasonable and proportionate (within the limits set by the Gifts and Entertainment Policy), have a genuine business purpose and are appropriate in the circumstances.

Business Code of Conduct

Commitment to International Standards

Coats subscribes to a number of international standards and guidelines relevant to corporate responsibility and business conduct, including:

- The United Nations (UN) Declaration of Human Rights;
- The United Nations (UN) Convention on the Rights of the Child;
- The International Labour Organisation (ILO) Eight Fundamental Conventions;
- The Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises; and
- The Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Convention on Combatting Bribery.

Principles and requirements of these standards and guidelines are incorporated into this code.

Ethical business conduct and fair dealing

All Coats' employees must accept responsibility for maintaining and enhancing the Company's reputation for integrity and fairness in its business dealings. In its everyday business transactions the Company must be seen to be dealing even-handedly and honestly with all its customers, consumers, suppliers, employees and others with whom the Company has a relationship. The foundations of this lie in all employees acting with honesty, integrity and fairness and being prepared to speak up when they feel this is not happening.

Conflicts of interest

Outside engagements – employees of the Company should not serve as an officer, director, employee, consultant or promoter of or have any financial interest in any organisation which is or becomes a supplier, customer or competitor of Coats, without the prior approval of the Group Chief Executive (GCE).

Related engagements – Coats does not permit nepotism. Where any relative (either by blood or marriage) of a Coats employee has a financial interest (for example, a shareholding or some other performance related incentive) in a customer or supplier, competitor or any other enterprise with whom Coats intends to do business, the prior approval of the GCE must be obtained. Similarly, if an employee becomes aware that Coats is already engaged in any such business relationship involving a relative then approval from the GCE must be obtained if that business relationship is to continue.

See the guidance note on conflicts of interest for further details (including the procedure to be followed where a relative has a non-financial interest in a customer, supplier, competitor or other enterprise with which Coats does or intends to do business). Separately, refer to the Coats Employment of Relatives Policy if you are considering recruiting or working with a relative.

Gifts and entertainment – employees of the Company must ensure that they deal with customers, suppliers and other business relationships in a way that avoids their independent judgement on behalf of the Company being influenced by personal advantage, or any appearance that this may be the case. All employees must adhere to our Gifts and Entertainment Policy.

Employees

Working conditions – the Company believes the human rights of its employees at work are an absolute and universal requirement.

Equal opportunities/no discrimination – in employment related matters (including recruitment, access to training and promotion, transfer, employment termination, discipline, compensation and benefits) decisions are made on the basis of the qualifications, performance record and abilities needed for the work to be undertaken, and relevant business circumstances.

The Company is committed to equal opportunities at work; employees should not engage in or support discrimination based on race, colour, language, caste, national origin, indigenous status, ethnic origin, sexual orientation, religion, disability, gender, marital status, union membership, political affiliation, or age.

Working environment and occupational health and safety – the Company is committed to providing a safe and healthy work environment and to ensuring, so far as it is reasonably practicable, the health, safety and welfare at work of its employees. The Company's Health and Safety Policy is publicly available and a Health and Safety Management System is in place to coordinate the management of occupational health and safety across the Company.

Employees have a duty to take reasonable care of their own health and safety and that of others who may be affected by their acts or omissions. Employees must use all work items provided by the Company correctly, in accordance with their training and the instructions they received to use them safely.

Employees should not act contrary to what is expected in the ordinary course of employment (for example lending money to other employees).

Suppliers and contractors

The Company is committed to proactively encourage its suppliers and contractors to demonstrate responsible business behaviour and high standards of business conduct. Suppliers and contractors are required to adhere to the Coats Anti-bribery and Anti-corruption Policy and familiarise themselves with the applicable anti-corruption laws in each jurisdiction in which they conduct business on behalf of Coats.

Delegated authorities

The existence of an agreed authority delegation structure is an essential requirement for establishing an effective financial and operational control environment. The Company delegates the authority of the Board of Directors through its Delegated Authorities Policy. All business units are required to establish and maintain appropriate levels of authority to cover all items of asset value / expenditure and all transactions which need to be subject to management approval.

Integrity of Company financial records

The books and records of the Company must accurately reflect the nature of the underlying transactions and no undisclosed or unrecorded liabilities or assets shall be established or maintained. Books and records must be maintained in all respects according to law and the accounting principles, policies and procedures that the Company has adopted. The Company will not evade tax obligations and all taxable benefits which employees may receive will be listed and declared for tax purposes.

Protecting confidential information

Employees of the Company must ensure that confidential information is preserved and protected. Confidential information is that which is not generally known outside the organisation and either gives or could give the Company a competitive advantage or disadvantage or could lead to the loss of any existing competitive advantage if it became known to others or became known in the public domain. This kind of information may not be revealed to anyone outside of the organisation unless an appropriate confidentiality agreement is in place and such disclosure is necessary for business purposes. See our Confidential Information Policy for further details.

Protecting personal data

Employees of the Company must respect the privacy of others and ensure that they process personal data in accordance with Coats' Data Protection Policy.

Warning signs

You're on thin ethical ice when you hear ...

"It doesn't matter how it gets done as long as it gets done."

"No one will ever know."

"We didn't have this conversation."

"It sounds too good to be true."

"Shred that document."

"I deserve it."

"We can hide it."

"It's all for a good cause."

"Well, maybe just this once."

"Everyone does it."

"What's in it for me?"

"It's okay if I don't gain personally."

"No one will get hurt."

"We have one policy here; you don't tell on your colleagues"

You can probably think of many more phrases that raise warning flags. If you find yourself using any of these expressions, take the following quick quiz and make sure you are on solid ethical ground.

Sense check questions

When in doubt, ask yourself ...

"Are my actions legal?"

"Does it comply with Coats values?"

"Am I being fair and honest?"

"Does it in any way pose a risk to the company's reputation?"

"How will it look in the newspaper?"

"Does my supervisor know?"

"Will my action stand the test of time?"

"What are the consequences of the proposed action?"

"Am I doing the right thing?"

If you are still not sure what to do, ask, and keep asking, until you are certain you are doing the right thing.
